
Accepted by the manager before any change, and by the sealed vault when the head is not checked: the client writes A.

Refused by the sealed vault with the head: the key server names B, and the client writes nothing.